Estimate 2,000 Families Homeless, 140 Dead in Flood

5000 CATTLE DROWNED AS AID RUSHED

55 Miles of Railroad Track Washed Out; Waters Receding

McCOOK, Neb., Monday, June 3. (AP)—Thirty-five bodies had been taken from the flood-swept Republican River Valley in Southern Nebraska today when State Senator W. C. Bullard, general chairman of relief work here, announced the known death toll was about 140 persons.

J. M. Power of St. Louis, American Red Cross official, said between 1,000 and 2,000 Nebraska families are homeless and his estimate was "conservative."

Bullard estimated 5,000 cattle were dead and 55 miles of railroad track were washed out.

Rescue work and the search for bodies continued today in the 11 Nebraska counties which were devastated by the twin catastrophe of floods and tornadoes. Property damage was estimated at more than $12,000,000.

91 Dead in Nebraska
Reports from Carter that seven persons were listed as dead in that vicinity brought the Nebraska unofficial toll compiled by The Associated Press to 91.

Receding waters of the mad Republican river disclosed an ugly landscape of ravines, slime and debris. Reconstruction efforts included disease prevention, power and communications restoration and rebuilding of water supplies.

Families Reunited
Between here and Benkelman, scores of families were reunited after members were taken off house tops, islands and trees. Heavy boats, brought overland from the Missouri river, and air- (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

'ENEMY'S KISS' COMING!

New Novel to Start June 8

Evelyn M. Winch, whose "Enemy's Kiss" is The Journal's next serial story, starting Saturday, June 8, belongs to a new group of young English women writers whose work is attracting interest.

She has written several novels and is a regular contributor to women's magazines in England, Canada and the United States. "Enemy's Kiss" shows her ability as a writer who knows how to combine mystery and romance into a completely absorbing story.

"Enemy's Kiss" opens in an old Sussex house to which pretty Allison Rede has been summoned by what purported to be a message from her father. After Allison has contrived a way to enter the house, apparently vacant and in utter darkness, she finds that Robert Rede has failed to keep his appointment—and then begins to suspect that she has been lured to the dismal old place for some purpose she dares not imagine.

World's Greatest Liner Breaks Old Crossing Records

NEW YORK, Monday, June 3. (AP)—With the Atlantic blue ribbon her prize on her maiden voyage, the giant new French liner Normandie steamed into the harbor today amid a wild acclaim by air-planes and the blasts of sirens on hundreds of welcoming craft.

Her voyage was the fastest ever made by a trans-Atlantic liner. Averaging 29.68 knots from Southampton to Ambrose Lightship, the Normandie surpassed the 28.92 knot record set by the Italian liner Rex.

Waits for Tide
The liner reached Ambrose Light in the outer harbor at 10:02 a. m., eastern standard time, but had to remain several hours for a flood tide before she could sail past Gotham's skyscrapers to her new Hudson dock.

Besides the mythical blue ribbon—won for the fastest time across the ocean—the Normandie set these records:

Fastest northern lane crossing. Her time from Southampton of 107 hours, 33 minutes, beat the best mark of the Bremen, by almost three hours.

Fastest Day's Run
Fastest day's run. During 24 hours from noon Saturday to noon yesterday the Normandie covered 743 miles at an average of 29.22, beating the Rex's mark.

The best hour's speed, until she flashed by the Ambrose Light, was 31.39 knots, the highest sustained speed ever achieved by a liner.

The French pride came up to the mouth of the bay in sunshine. Passengers crowding the decks could see back rows of automobiles and crowds lining the Brooklyn and Long Island shores to watch the ship glide by.

HOME BUILDING IN SANTA ANA ON UPGRADE

Two permits issued Saturday by Building Inspector Sam Preble for the construction of new homes swelled this year's total of residential permits to 31, with a total valuation of $128,100.

E. A. McKinney of 1341 South Parton street was granted a permit to build a $3500 residence and garage at 1317 South Van Ness. The contractor is O. F. Fowler. Another permit issued was for construction of a $5000 residence at 2041 North Ross street, granted to Cy Perkins of 1001 North Flower. The contractor is Jasper Farney.

During the entire year 1934 only 27 permits for construction of residences were granted, having a total valuation of $113,700.

LOS ANGELES—Anticipated for several days, a gasoline "war" was in progress in Los Angeles. Major oil companies began delivering third grade gasoline to stations at a tank wagon price of 11 cents a gallon, two cents under the previous price.

BREMER KIDNAP GANGSTER IN GUILTY PLEA

ST. PAUL, Monday, June 3. (AP)—Gripped hard by the law he had dodged so long, Volney Davis, one of the Barker-Karpis kidnap mob, pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges in connection with the $200,000 Bremer abduction case today.

Arraigned before Federal Judge M. M. Joyce, the fugitive gangster listened to the lengthy reading of the indictment in the same courtroom in which his erstwhile pal, Arthur (Doc) Barker, recently was convicted of kidnapping Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker, last year.

Davis Unmoved
Davis listened unmoved before the bar of justice while guards eyed him.

Bremer, 37-year-old bank president, was kidnaped Jan. 17, 1934, and released after 21 days of imprisonment in a "hideout" at Bensenville, Ill., upon payment of $200,000 ransom.

Brought here by plane from Chicago, where he was captured Saturday, under heavy guard, Davis was escorted to the courtroom less than five hours after he landed here. He was flanked on both sides by a cordon of deputy marshals.

Doc Barker and Oliver Berg, Illinois state prison lifer, were sentenced to life terms following conviction in the Bremer kidnaping, while five others are awaiting sentence.

Sentencing Deferred
On motion of George F. Sullivan, United States district attorney, sentencing of Davis was deferred. (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

TOMATO CASE DEFENDANTS GIVEN JOLT

Stories of Witnesses For Girl Who Lost Eye Are Damaging

Denials on the part of four of the 24 junior college and high school youths of Fullerton that they were on Euclid avenue, near Garden Grove, after 9 o'clock the night they are alleged to have hurled tomatoes which broke the windshield of Miss Genevieve Johnston's automobile and caused the loss of her eye, were dealt damaging blows in department 1, superior court, today.

Witnesses for Miss Johnston in her $20,400 damage suit definitely placed the two trucks, in which the boys are said to have been riding, on that highway at approximately the hour Miss Johnston was injured. William Johnston and three other defendants, testifying last Wednesday, said they had traversed the road not later than 7:30 o'clock on the night Miss Johnston was injured. Miss Johnston told Judge H. G. Ames, who is presiding, that she sustained injuries shortly after 9 o'clock.

Officer Testifies
This morning the first blow dealt the defense was by George Annin, Fullerton police officer. He said he and another officer had made the boys pick up a quantity of paper they had scattered over the streets of that city. Annin (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

CONTROVERSY IN 2 CITIES

Orange county was watching with sympathetic interest today as San Clemente, with its recall situation, and San Juan Capistrano, with its school controversy, were trying to solve their troubles.

At San Clemente, recall petitions already have been filed with the city clerk, demanding recall of Mayor A. T. Smith. On Friday a notice of intention to circulate recall petitions demanding removal of Councilman Earl Von Bon Horst was published.

It is understood that no official action has been taken at San Juan Capistrano in regard to the situation there which has developed during recent months, in which friends of Stanley Stanberry, high school principal, are in one faction, and friends of J. S. Malcom, former principal, are in another group. Friends of Mr. Malcom, now a teacher in the high school, are reported to have been dissatisfied with the fact that another (Please turn to Page 2, Column 2)

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 3. Despite the fact that the NRA decision was awaited as the most momentous of the year, supreme court attaches did not have extra copies of the ruling. So when the White House, an hour after the decision was rendered, sent a messenger to obtain a copy, the clerk of the court had none available. This is not the first time in recent months that attaches of the court have bungled the handling of an important decision, and caused the suggestion that the august tribunal emulate the rest of the New Deal and hire a publicity man. . . . Tennessee Valley farmers who are cooking with electricity are going to have nothing on the White House. The kitchen of that historic mansion soon is to be com-

MAN HUNT IN KIDNAP CASE DIES DOWN

Tacoma Goes Back to Workday Activities After Boy's Return

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)
TACOMA, Wash., Monday, June 3.—Tacoma returned to its work-day activities today after the eight days wonder of the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping and a Sabbath of thanksgiving for his safe return.

Federal agents maintained headquarters here and the state patrol continued its blockade of all highways in Washington. Meanwhile the manhunt died down in north-east Oregon where a suspicious sedan containing half a dozen men had been reported playing hide and seek with deputy sheriffs in the "cow country" where Edward Hickman, Los Angeles girl kidnaper, was caught in 1927.

Hiding in Area
The belief spread that George's abductors, $200,000 richer because of the parental anguish of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, jr., had separated and were in hiding in this territory, waiting until the hue and cry subsided before attempting a getaway.

A list of the numbers on the ransom bills was being distributed to banks and merchants today, in an effort to trap the kidnapers.

Authorities still refused to say who paid George's ransom and when or where it was paid. George had been quoted Saturday as saying it was paid by F. Rodman Titcomb, his uncle.

The investigators also had clamped the lips of Louis Bonifas, Issaquah woodcutter, to whose home George trudged after his release. They were silent on whether they were working on the theory that the abductors were the (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

REPORT PLANE LOST IN SEA

The Coast Guard cutter Tamara was searching off Dana Point today for an unidentified airplane reported to have disappeared in the ocean last night. Night Officer Al Allison at Laguna Beach said today that an automobile party reported to him last night that they had seen the plane disappear below a bluff at Dana Point.

There was no other verification of the rumor. No airplanes are known to be missing from Los Angeles ports. All local planes have been accounted for, according to airport information.

ASSEMBLY IN DEFEAT OF MEASURE

Freak Entertainment Is Ousted By Signing of Hunt Law

SACRAMENTO, Monday, June 3. (AP)—By a large majority, the assembly today refused to pass the Latham bill calling for a constitutional convention to be held in February, 1937.

Only 26 votes in favor of the measure were mustered by its proponents, as 48 "noes" cast against it.

Defeat of the proposal does not destroy all chances that the convention to redraft California's constitution will be held because a similar bill by Assemblyman R. W. Evans of Los Angeles remains to be considered.

Differences Told

The major difference between the two lies in the fact that under the Evans measure the convention would be held early in 1936, one year before that proposed by Assemblyman Latham.

Freak entertainment suffered a body blow in California today when finish was written to the depression rage of moratoriums, walkathons, speedathons, skatahons, endurancehons or any other kind of "thon," involving mental and physical endurance contests. The end of this type of public entertainment, which swept the state for several years, made pro- (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

400 EXPECTED ON CITY VISIT TO GARDENS

Santa Anans were jubilant today over The Journal's announcement concerning Santa Ana day at Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden next Saturday. While many from this city and other communities in Orange county have visited the gardens made famous by their founder, Mrs. Sussanna Bixby Bryant, there are thousands who have viewed the institution only from afar. They are looking forward to the chamber of commerce excursion this week-end.

Directors of the chamber will meet tonight to make final preparations for the trip. It is expected 350 to 400 will go, all to be supplied with tickets of admission by the chamber.

"I doubt if there is another single thing in Orange county that will bring Santa Ana and Orange county as much publicity as the botanic gardens at Rancho Santa Ana," said Edward M. Hall, chairman of the chamber publicity committee. (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

FAITH BRINGS IMMUNITY Preacher Well After Bites

ST. CHARLES, Va., Monday, June 3. (AP)—Recovering from the poison bite of a copperhead snake, received in a "demonstration of faith," and unharmed by three large rattlers he handled before a highly emotional congregation, the Rev. George Hensley, Holiness preacher, today reiterated his claim of immunity to reptile venom through "faith in God."

A crowd estimated at 1000 which swarmed in a grove of cedar trees at Ramsey last night watched the revivalist and five others handle the rattlesnakes imported from the mountains of Kentucky.

BALBOA GIRL VICTIM IN SHOOTING

Sister, 7, Pulls Trigger of Weapon Found in Father's Luggage

Two children alone in a room with a loaded revolver—The old, old story was re-enacted yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson J. Locke, 1721 Miramar, Balboa, but the ending may be brighter than for some other families, because Bettina Locke, 5, the victim, still was alive in St. Joseph's hospital here today.

No one knows exactly how the accident occurred. The little girl was playing with her sister, Marianna, 7. Their father, who had just returned from Tucson, Ariz., was upstairs.

Blast Brings Father
According to a report at the Newport Beach police department, Marianna picked up the revolver, ignorant of its significance.

The blast from the gun brought Mr. Locke hurrying to the room, where Bettina lay in agony, her terrified sister watching her. The bullet from the .45-caliber weapon had entered the little girl's back near the base of the spine and had gone upward to the shoulder.

Rushed to Hospital
Bettina was taken first to the Newport Beach emergency hospital, but later was removed to St. Joseph's hospital.

How the little girls managed to get the weapon from their father's luggage on the couch in the front room, or how they managed to slip the catch on the gun, is not known. Bettina was resting quietly today at the hospital, where attendants said she should recover.

CAR CRASHES HURT SEVEN

Automobile accidents on Orange county highways over the week-end resulted in injury to seven of the persons involved.

Fernando Alva, 23, and Julius Martinez, both of Stanton, were taken to the Orange County hospital Saturday night where they were treated for injuries sustained when Alva's car collided with another driven by Salvador Michaca, 35, of Stanton. The accident occurred on Katella road near Stanton avenue.

COURT RULES INDICES FOR DETERMINING RATES INAPPROPRIATE

JUSTICES SPLIT
6-3 ON THEIR DECISION

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 3. (AP)—A six-to-three supreme court decision today held the use of commodity prices indices "inappropriate" for determining rates of a public service corporation.

An opinion delivered by Associate Justice Roberts invalidated an order of the Maryland Public Service Commission, which required the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore to put into effect a schedule of rates which would reduce its annual revenue from intrastate business by not less than $850,000.

Justices Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo dissented.

MORE ABOUT
TOMATO CASE

(Continued from Page One) declared this occurred at approximately 7:30 p. m. The boys had testified that the incident happened prior to their trip to Santa Ana. Franklin Grouard, Santa Ana police officer, testified he had stopped the two trucks in which the boys were riding at 8:35 p. m. and ordered the youths to leave town after they had said they planned to decorate the Santa Ana High school.

Mrs. Helen Nelson, Garden Grove matron, dealt a severe blow to the defense when she testified that two trucks, loaded with boys and with lights out, had passed her car on Euclid avenue and showered her with tomatoes shortly after 9 o'clock, she said. She also told of having seen the automobile in which Miss Johnston was riding, parked at the side of the road and splattered with tomatoes.

Roy Mills, another Fullerton police officer, told of having answered a call to Hillcrest park on a report that youths were pelting passing cars with tomatoes and persimmons. He said he rounded up approximately 20 youths, several of whom he identified as being in court, and took them, with their truck and a quantity of tomatoes, to the police station.

LOS ANGELES, Monday, June 3. Judge Bishop ruled today that the actress must appear within five days and give her deposition. He also ruled she must appear and show cause why she should not be restrained from taking her daughter from the State of California, pending trial of Bannister's action.

SOUTHLAND WATCHING

LOS ANGELES, Monday, June 3. (AP)—Police vigilance was maintained today in Southern California on the possibility that some of the George Weyerhaeuser kidnapers may have fled here from the northwest, but what was at first believed to be a clue to the whereabouts of two suspects failed to materialize.

A tan sedan, abandoned in North Hollywood and similar to a machine in which the sheriff of Kern county, north of here, said two men were riding who resembled Weyerhaeuser suspects, was found to belong to the employee of an automobile dealer who had driven it here from Modesto.

Suspicion was directed to the car when it was noticed the license plates had been removed. Another flurry was caused when a policeman said a man resembling Alvin Karpis, notorious gangster, entered a Glendale hotel, but a search failed to locate him.

Lowland dwellers near here — where the Republican joins the smoky hill to form the Kaw which flows eastward to the Missouri — were warned in time to move to safety but several families remained in their homes.

As the waters swept down from Nebraska the Kansas flood tool stood at 10. Upstream at Milford the river rose eight feet in three hours to a stage 5½ feet above the high mark.

From upstream at Clay Center came a report a large dam might break and send several more feet of water down the river.

OKLAHOMA

GYUMON, Okla., Monday, June 3. Visibility was limited to less than half a block. At Hollis a sand and dust storm struck, reducing visibility to less than a quarter of a mile.

DENVER, Monday, June 3. (AP)—With signs of relief, Colorado and Wyoming residents were ready to believe today the worst of the Memorial Day floods was over.

The death toll remained at 26, with 19 in Colorado and seven in Wyoming. Fourteen bodies have been recovered.

Damage estimates still were vague, but with the assurance they will run into millions for highways, railroad lines, bridges, city property and livestock.

Northeastern Colorado, last portion of the state to feel the fury of the state's worst flood since the Pueblo debacle in 1921, watched the South Platte river and other swollen streams subside.

Southeastern Colorado, meanwhile, was plagued by a dust storm nearly as severe as those of April and residents voiced hopes for more rain.

At Colorado Springs, where the floods first struck last Thursday, plans went ahead to ask the federal government for $1,500,000 to rebuild highways, bridges and city property.

HUNTINGTON BEACH OIL PRODUCTION INCREASED 4567 BARRELS

NRA COLLAPSE FOLLOWED BY OUTPUT GAIN

Daily Allowable Raised to 29,400 Barrels; Minors Open Up

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Monday, June 3.—Allowable production for the Huntington Beach oil field was increased 4567 barrels daily Saturday under the voluntary California oil production curtailment plan in an effort to defeat the production policy of a group of independent companies launched following collapse of the NRA codes. With the increased allowable, the Huntington Beach daily production amounts to 29,400 barrels, according to J. R. Pemberton, state oil umpire.

Immediately after the breakdown of the national oil codes under the NRA, "hot oil" began pouring from the Huntington Beach field, as asserted from several minor companies.

Major companies and other independents fell back on their old voluntary agreement which a majority of the operators had approved prior to the national action. In a public statement, Oil Umpire Pemberton claimed that while the quota allotments could not be enforced without the voluntary cooperation of the operators themselves, he believed little trouble would result.

LET'S READ A NEW BOOK!

By VERA RAMSEY

Book Reviews from the Public Library

IN A BENGAL JUNGLE, by John Symington. In the valley town of Les Mahagow, in the Southern Highlands of Scotland, John Symington was born. However, he by no means stayed among these mountains. The far places of the earth became his.

As a medical missionary, he was the first white man in many sections of the world. After many experiences he became medical official on tea plantations at the foot of the Himalaya mountains. In this book he tells of his 12 years in the most exhausting and enervating climate of India. Here he fought tropical diseases, cleaned up contaminated water supplies, bound tiger-infested wounds, dug coolies out of fallen embankments.

These adventures of a doctor in the jungles make a vigorous story. There are hairbreadth escapes and while crossing flooded rivers and while defending his bungalow from attacks from leopards and wildcats. Best of all there is the unselfish devotion of a doctor to his patients, some of them in the meanest huts of the poor.

NATIONAL VELVET, by Enid Bagnold. This novel is about horses and horse racing. The author solemnly assures us that nothing in the statistics of the Grand National steeplechase would make the story impossible.

The most noteworthy thing about this book, however, is its description of the home life of a family. With unwavering accuracy, Enid Bagnold puts before us each member of the Brown family of the South Downs of Sussex overlooking the sea. She gives us small details about the life of these people. Their daily doings are described to us even to the food they ate—custard pudding, kedgeree, mutton and capers, gooseberry fool. After sharing such things with them, we feel that we are one of the Browns.

It is because we are set so solidly in actual things that we accept the almost fantastic plot. Nowhere in modern fiction will the reader find a family interior more superbly captured. After we are firmly entrenched in that we are ready to accept anything that may follow.

KING GEORGE RIDES IN ANCIENT CEREMONY ON BIRTHDAY TODAY

STEEL WORKERS AT CITY HALL AUGMENTED

Six Long Beach steel workers were on the job at the city hall here today, augmenting the crew of nine Orange county men on the construction project, according to V. W. Houghton, resident engineer for the Public Works Administration, which is assisting with financing of the building.

The Long Beach men were put on the job because the supply of qualified Orange county steel workers has been exhausted, Mr. Houghton said. Within the next few days the final crew of about eight men will be picked. Within two days concrete pouring will be started, and thereafter there will be approximately two months of employment for steel workers, he explained.

Five local men qualified conditionally last week. Out of the group now working, the final crew will be picked, Mr. Houghton said.

DAFOE HONORED BY THE KING

LONDON, Monday, June 3. (AP) Dr. Alan Roy Dafoe, whose achievement in nursing the Dionne quintuplets through one year of life made medical history, has been appointed an officer of the Order of the British Empire.

The award was conferred on the Canadian physician in King George's birthday honors list, which extended recognition for meritorious service to men famous in artistic, literary and scientific fields throughout the empire.

RECENT BRIDE HAS TEA FOR GROUP IN NEW HOME

Mrs. Kenneth Miller (Edith Gajekski Mee) opened her pretty new home in Santa Ana Gardens Saturday from 2 to 5 o'clock with a tea for a few of her friends.

An appetizing buffet "spread" was featured. Sweet peas and Mexican primroses appointed the home.

Guests included Mrs. E. Lampert, Mrs. Herbert Myers, Mrs. J. A. Gajekski, Miss Virginia Gajekski, Mrs. C. H. Powers and Mrs. Della Miller of Santa Ana, Mrs. George Bremer of Costa Mesa, and Mrs. Cecil Yates and her young sons, Claude and Richard, of Tustin.

PICNIC TO TAKE PLACE OF MEETING

Wrycende Maegden members will substitute a picnic at Jack Fisher park Tuesday evening for their weekly meeting in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

Members will meet at 6 o'clock at the "Y" and go to the park. A picnic lunch will be served.

WHILE the Post Office Department is strenuously trying to suppress the chain letter racket, government clerks have started a chain of their own. 20,000 BURIED IN INDIA AS TOLL MOUNTS

QUETTA, India, Monday, June 3. (AP)—Authorities contemplated today finishing the destruction of this "garden city of India," ruined in a series of earthquakes, by dynamiting the debris to prevent an outbreak of disease.

With the death toll in Friday's quakes estimated at 40,000, it was believed at least 20,000 bodies were still buried in the wreckage. Survivors were being evacuated as quickly as possible. Trains leaving the stricken area were packed with grieving and dazed refugees, mostly native Indians.

Minor shocks were felt as relief activities went forward, but caused no further serious damage. So vast a task confronted the relief workers that many of the survivors had gone without food for 48 hours.

NEGRO TO SING ON THURSDAY

A beautiful voice, developed by a lifetime of training, will be brought to the stage of the First Methodist church Thursday night when Luther King, negro tenor, presents a recital of opera selections and popular classics, at 7:30 o'clock.

King was born in central Georgia and from early childhood was surrounded with the folk songs and spirituals of his race. When his parents moved to Cleveland, he worked at odd jobs to continue his education in the public schools. His first chance at opera came in "Aida" in which he took the part of a servant.

At the age of 15 he became soloist in a church choir and joined the school glee club. After studying music theory in the Cleveland Music school settlement and in the David Mannes Music school of New York, he entered Fisk University and traveled throughout the United States and Canada as soloist with the Fisk Jubilee Singers. During this period he appeared as soloist with the Davenport and Detroit Symphony orchestras, and later with the Cleveland orchestra. He created the role of "Tom-Tom" at its premiere performance in the Cleveland stadium.

His wife will accompany him. Recently on his concert tour, he presented programs in San Diego, Glendale, and Pasadena.

HILL-BILLY HUEY

OCCASIONALLY the Congressional Record leaves out the hill-billy phrases with which Huey Long seasons his talk in the senate. The hand of South Dakota's well-drilling Senator Peter Norbeck was pumped by many colleagues when he returned to the Senate floor this week after a serious illness. . . . Though he represents a district with a population of 138,000, Chicago's Congressman Leo Kocakowski lists nothing but his name and the word "Democrat" in the biographical section of the Congressional Record. He was born in the United States of Polish parents. . . . Relief clients in Wyoming are feasting on elk steaks these days. A scarcity of hay for winter and spring feeding in Jackson Hole County forced the Fish and Game Commission to slaughter 400 elk, which were taken by the state FERA for relief kitchens. . . . In Montana they are killing animals of another species. Prairie dogs to the number of nine million have been killed by scattering poisoned grain. This was a relief project—bringing relief not only to men employed on the job, but also to ranchers who regard prairie dogs as pests.

'HOW TO PRAY' TOPIC TAKEN BY PASTOR

"How to Pray" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday by the Rev. William Schmook at morning services of the Trinity Lutheran church.

When the disciples asked Jesus, "Lord, teach us to pray," He gave them the model of all prayers, the Lord's Prayer, the Rev. Mr. Schmook said. From His words, we see that it is God's will that we should be constant in prayer, the pastor continued.

"Prayer is not a mere wish that God may help us, but it is an earnest and importunate appeal for God's help with the earnest desire that we get what we ask for. If our prayer is not answered but continues, in fact, we should importune the Lord like Jacob and the Syrochenean woman," said the Rev. Mr. Schmook.

"Furthermore, we should not doubt, but ask our heavenly Father with all boldness and confidence. In Luke II, Jesus reminds us that if even a sinful, selfish person will grant a request because of the importunity of the petitioner, even if he would not do it for friendship's sake, how much more will God, the heavenly Father, hear our prayer. He furthermore reminds us that if human fathers, though sinful, selfish, and imperfect by nature, seek the welfare of their children, how much more will our heavenly Father, who is perfect in wisdom, power, and love hear the prayers of His children and give them 'good things.'

"Thus the Lord teaches us to pray, not only earnestly, purposefully, and with importunity, but also boldly and with the firm confidence that our prayers will be heard. 'The Amen' at the end of our prayers should permeate the whole prayer according to its significance: 'Amen, amen, that is yes, yes, it shall be so.'"

EYE WITNESS IS BITTEN! Dog Loses Boy But Nips Man

FULLERTON, Monday, June 3. R. W. Wykoff, 901 North Spadra, Fullerton, was standing on the sidewalk in front of a home at 10 a. m. Sunday. He noticed a boy coming down the street on a bicycle. A dog also had his eye on the bicycle, and as it was late breakfast time, the dog evidently decided it would eat the boy who, being an expert cyclist, outdistanced the dog. When the dog appeared at the side of Mr. Wykoff, apparently disappointed at missing the boy, it set its "brakes" and slid up to the man, reached up and took a juicy hunk out of his leg, just below the knee. To this Mr. Wykoff objected, and asked police that the hound be looked after. Dr. B. A. Brown will arrest the man.

Trooping of Colors Is Feature of Event on 70th Anniversary

LONDON, Monday, June 3. (AP)

King George V, astride a gentle bay horse, rode with his four sons at the head of a column of crack cavalry and foot soldiers today in the ancient ceremony of trooping the colors as a mark of his completion of the Biblical span of three score years and ten.

All the British empire celebrated the King's 70th birthday anniversary as a holiday.

His majesty participated in the trooping, wearing the scarlet and gold uniform of colonel-in-chief of the Irish Guards. He saluted right and left with a white-gloved hand as he rode from Buckingham Palace to the horseguards parade and back again.

From all sides came from the crowds cries of "God bless you, sir!" "Many happy returns!" "Long may you live!" The Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Kent, like their father, wore military uniforms and the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter. It was the first time all four sons had participated with their father in such a ceremony.

The king's only daughter, the princess royal, Countess of Harewood, did not attend.

200 Attend Wedding of Florine Pollock-Glann Feldner in M. E. Chapel

Pastels Used In Wedding Gowns

Reception in Home Follows Ceremony, 75 Guests Attend

In the softly-illuminated bride's chapel of First Methodist church at 4:30 o'clock yesterday, Miss Florine Pollock, dainty blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kent Pollock of 1113 West Fifth street, was married to Glann Feldner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Feldner of Orange. Rev. Robert B. McAnay of Orange Presbyterian church read the marriage service in the presence of 200 guests.

The chapel was lovely with baskets of flowers in pink and white, and the bride's attendants were all in tints of pink or blue. Before the ceremony, Miss Eulabelle Smith of Orange, assisted at the piano by Earl Fraser of Santa Ana, sang "Love" (Berger) and "If My Songs Have Wings" (Reynold Hahn). Miss Smith wore turquoise taffeta. Mrs. Richard Miller of Huntington Beach, who wore pink organza, played the wedding march. Both wore picture hats.

Flower Girls
Before the bride party entered the chapel, two young nieces of the bride, Sylvia Joan Davidson and Barbara Joy Fagg, both plaid-in blondes and wearing floor-length frocks of pink and blue net, scattered pink and blue flower petals from diminutive baskets bordered with stiff pink and blue flowers.

Miss Pollock, who was given in marriage by her father, wore gardenia satin, simply-made, with cowl neckline and skirt sweeping to the floor in graceful lines. Her veil was caught into a cap bordered by tiny petals, and the finger-tip tulle veil fell over her face from a band of real orange blossoms. She carried as "something old" in bridal tradition a lace and linen handkerchief which her mother and her two sisters, Mrs. Robert Davidson and Mrs. Charles Edward Fagg, had carried at their weddings.

Maid of Honor
"Something borrowed" was a personal article borrowed from her maid of honor, and the "blue" was her fiancé's gift of blue crystal and pearls. The bride's bouquet was 50 white roses, their stems wrapped in white satin, and trailing satin ribbons tied with sprays of lilies of the valley.

Miss Wilma Zentner, maid of honor, wore pale blue taffeta with deeper blue sash and a white turban, and carried pink gladioli and larkspur.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Davidson, matron of honor, wore a deeper blue crepe gown with white picture hat and deeper pink bouquet.

The four bridesmaids, Misses Louise Casey of Whittier and Edith Robinson, Bernice Snyder and Barbara Finster of Santa Ana, wore graduated pink tinted frocks and white turbans, and carried blue delphinium.

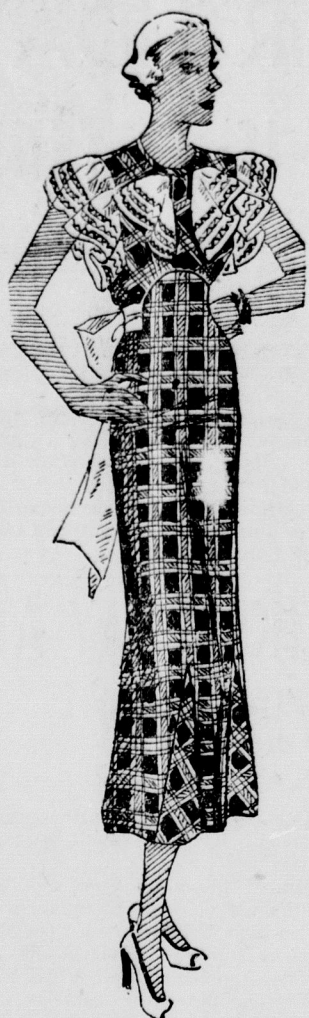

The bride's mother wore dusty pink crepe with lace overjacket, picture hat and gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore white lace and accessories and pink flowers.

Best Man
Ira Wisner of Orange attended Mr. Feldner as best man. Ushers were Robert Davidson of Sierra Madre; Clyde Feldner, twin brother of the bridegroom, from Orange; Dan Gruell and Clifford Brown of Orange, and Charles Snyder of Santa Ana.

At the close of the wedding 75 relatives of the bride couple went to the Pollock home for a reception. A tiered bride's cake centered the reception table, which was all in white linens, candles and flowers. Gifts from the bride's numerous showers were displayed to the guests.

DRILL TEAM WILL SPONSOR DESSERT BRIDGE

Plans for a dessert bridge June 14 in Veterans' hall were made at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary drill team held Friday night at the home of Mrs. Ira Mercer, 2408 Valencia street. Mrs. Marion Dodder was co-hostess.

The committee will include Mrs. Fred Haiber, general chairman, Mrs. Warren McCarty, and Mrs. Mercer.

Present were Meses. George Sullivan, Ramond Marsile, A. J. Anderson, Haiber, Dodder, Russell Harcaste, McCarty, Willard Swarthout, Charles Leimer, Clay Minix, Cornish Roehm, Pearl Christensen, and the hostesses.

MRS. SELLON TO BE AUXILIARY HOSTESS
Mrs. G. I. Sellon, 112 West Brookdale, Fullerton, will be hostess to the Orange County Medical association auxiliary Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock.

Reports of the recent state convention, and musical numbers are scheduled.

C. J. Valente, sisters of the bride, served the wedding cakes. Mrs. Clyde Feldner, Mrs. Lawrence Pollock, Mrs. John State and Miss Virginia Pollock assisted with the serving.

The bride wore a turquoise crepe frock and hat to match, and a gray plaid coat flecked with blue, when she left with her husband for a two-weeks trip through northern California. They will return to make their home in Orange.

Mrs. Feldner attended Santa Ana High school and Santa Ana Junior college, and is actively interested in art and in singing, which she teaches. Her husband is a graduate of Orange Union High school and is associated with his father on an orange grove on W. Chapman avenue.

Annual Dance Of Jr. Ebell Thronged

More than 150 guests thronged the Peacock room of Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse Saturday evening to attend the traditional spring semi-formal dance at which Ebell Juniors were hostesses to their friends.

Under the able leadership of Mrs. Russell Rowland, the dance room was transformed into a bit of Holland, and pert conventionalized tulips "grew" in a border along the front of the stage on which Stillman Wells' orchestra was seated.

Serve in Windmill
In a goodsized Dutch windmill, Nancy Dell Russell and Barbara Speed of Girls' Ebell served punch to the dancers. Nancy Dell was in Dutch boy, and Barbara in Dutch girl wooden sabots and costumes, brought from Holland several years ago by a friend of the Speed family.

The dance committee, headed by Miss Eleanor Crookshank, who wore a pretty yellow and brown plaid organdy frock, presented corsages to the Juniors' president, Mrs. Don Park, and their chaperones for the evening.

Mrs. Park wore a white lace formal. The others were Mrs. John Tesson, in olive green velvet with overjacket and a pretty corsage of pansies; Mrs. E. D. White in carmine crepe with quilted white satin jacket; Mrs. F. C. Rowland in dark blue chiffon, printed, and Mrs. C. V. Davis, wearing pale green organdy with gay quilted jacket.

Other Frocks Seen
Among the dancers were noted Mrs. J. T. White in blue plaided white organdy, Mrs. Russell Rowland in red plaid organdy with white collar and mitts and red slippers (she was decorations chairman for the dance), Misses Evelyn and Eleanor Metzgar in blue and printed chiffon.

Also Mrs. Ralph Livenspire in green and blue printed chiffon, Mrs. Curt Zaiser in black taffeta, Mrs. C. E. McDonald, jr., in dusty rose silk, Mrs. Louise Norton in soft blue crepe, ruffled at the neckline and tied with a dark blue velvet sash.

And Mrs. Clarence Siemons in red and white silk Tahiti print, and Mrs. Karl Loerch, jr., in white ruffled organdy accented with a black cross.

Lagunalog

By MAXINE STOREY

The curtain at the Community club rises Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights on the famous "orgy of delightful insanity," "The Tavern," by George M. Cohan.

All about a tavern, the various characters who are sojourning there, a vagabond, and a bit of madness all around, the play from what I've seen of it looks like an immensely amusing bit of non-sense, melodrama, satire and just about everything else. And to make it all much more interesting this "nonsensical melodrama" takes place on "a dark and stormy night."

The lead is played by Vic Rankin, a lad who is fastidiously stealing all shows he's in. Vic, who had a very difficult and amusing character part in the last production, "An Invitation to a Murder," does even better in this—yep, I saw the dress rehearsal.

Speaking of taverns—there's "a tavern in the town," and there all chatters sit them down. Recent talk-about-this-and-that-ers who "tavern-ed" with friends both from here and there were—in one party Jerry Joyce, Mary Herrick, Steve Herrick, Jommy Boyd, Ed Keller and Bus Woods; (somehow Mary seems to look just about the most attractive and stunning in any crowd anywhere) . . . the Earl Hathaways and a party of eight out-of-towners were in another corner . . . and noted also Barbara and Ralph Frost, jr. . . Mrs. J. W. Rankin and a party of 'bout eight . . . and a table of 'bout 20 visitors whose names I just couldn't find a way to get . . . seems to me that Laguna had a record crowd this week-end.

The weekly "Sunday Nighters" dined and bridged . . . this time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones. In the every-Sunday-evening gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice MacMillan, Mr. and Mrs. William Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Tawney.

Glimpse of the week-end doings: "Taxy" and Curt Inman of Pasadena sunning Sunday . . . Curt with a tanner back than any of us . . . the Charles F. "Chuck" Riesners strolling the boardwalk, both in white linen . . . Gigi and Tim Parrish meandering along the waterfront, Gigi as charming as ever . . . she's a Wampus Baby star, you know . . . Louise and Barbara Rurup of Santa Ana chatting and tanning with Florence Turner . . . Martha and Clarence Young, former badminton-court owners here, badminton-ing at the local courts . . . Betty and Bronson Barber pouring over plans for their new Emerald Bay home . . . Bob Young, screen star, dining at the waterfront cafe . . . and "Cindy" Griffith week-ending with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Griffith (he the well-known desert and marine artist) from Redlands . . . "Cindy" will teach in the Santa Ana High school next year.

The Laguna Beach Badminton club will breeze up to the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Tuesday eve to play the Santa Anans in a return match. Should be a fairly interesting tournament since the Beach club was victorious on the home courts but Santa Anans seem to me to be a bit harder to tackle on indoor courts. Laguna club members who'll play are—first, men's singles, Stan Johnson; second singles, Chris Valente; third singles, Dave Monahan; fourth singles, Bruce Handy, and fifth singles, Bob Peacock. Others who'll bat the bird are: Christine Denamore, Katherine Grassie, June Storey, Mrs. Stan (Katy) Johnson, Jess Hibbs, Junior Doud and Ted Cook, jr.

Recent announcement was made of the marriage date of Lou Bonds of Pasadena and Laguna, and Bobby Turner, who has summered in Laguna for many years. Lou and Bobby will be married in San Gabriel on June 15. George Griffith of Laguna will be best man and Bob "Chappy" Chapman of Santa Ana will be an usher.

"Chappy," George, Ginny Enceill, Jimmy Smith and I think the Don Squires of Santa Ana gathered at Bobby's at Shaw's Beach to talk over the wedding and extend congratulations and good wishes.

Until "The Tavern" Friday, Saturday or Sunday eve—adios!

LAGUNA PLAYERS TO PRESENT MYSTERY DRAMA

Friday, Saturday and Sunday will bring George M. Cohan's famous old-time play, "The Tavern," to audiences at the Laguna Beach Community Players' playhouse.

Under direction of George Dunham and Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce, an excellent cast has been rehearsing daily on this production. Considerable research work has been done to reproduce faithfully the set used in the original presentation in New York, and to copy the original costumes. Correspondence is being carried on with Mr. Cohan, and every effort is being made to produce the play in a manner which will be a credit to him.

"The Tavern" is a skillful mixture of drama, mystery, suspense and comedy. The play opens in a lonely tavern at midnight on a wild and stormy night. Mysterious moving shadows, strangers hiding in a woodshed, an exchange of pistol shots—his appearance of one a strange group of assorted characters seeking shelter from the rain and lightning—mix-ups in identities, all furnish suspense. The vain attempts of William, the hired man, giant in stature but not in mental capacity, to discover what is transpiring during the strange night furnishes much of the comedy.

The cast of characters, in order of their appearance, follows:

Zach, the tavern keeper's son, Dean Riesner, (young son of "Chuck" Riesner of MGM); Sally, the hired girl, Betty Monahan; Freeman, the tavern keeper, Harrington Griggs; William, the hired man, Ed Hobart; The Vagabond, Victor Rankin; Violet, the mysterious woman, Sally Barnett; Lamson, the governor, Ned Chapin; Mrs. Lamson, Lewellyn Lyssa; Virginia Lamson, Barbara Reed; Tom Allen, the fiancé, Wes Denmore; The Sheriff, Hiram Shaw; The Sheriff's men, Roy Bliss and Chris Valente, and Stevens, the attendant, Ralph Van Hoorebeke.

Three of the cast are newcomers to the Community Players. Dean Riesner, better known as "Dink," heretofore has been seen only in high school productions, but it is predicted that the role he is carrying will be an outstanding one.

Miss Sally Barnett has formerly appeared with the Pasadena Community Players and in New York, and is giving a strikingly individual performance in the role of Violet, the mysterious woman.

Ned Chapin is not a newcomer to Laguna, but to Laguna audiences. He not only looks the part of the governor, but acts it as well.

FRAN CAREY, stenographer, found that an unexciting circumstance has come to her and tragedy, rapture and bitter shame.

Though Fran did not know it, HARRIETT RALEIGH, eccentric, wealthy old woman, had "lost" an old-fashioned locket where Fran found hers—and had provided in her will that whoever found the "lost" locket should inherit six million dollars at her death.

Fran's advertisement of the locket brings her to the attention of CHRISTOPHER ABBOTT, Miss Raleigh's lawyer, who falls in love with her, though Fran doesn't suspect it. It also brings her to the attention of ELLEN SPENCER, Miss Raleigh's housekeeper. Ellen's brother, JAY, and WARD QUENTIN. These three know of Miss Raleigh's will. They want the six million dollars. Their plan to get it involves Ward's marrying Fran and then, when Ward, an accomplished liar, and an accomplished lover, opens an office near Fran's, he meets her. He wins her love. Fran falls hopelessly in love with him. He tricks her. He tells her that he is really the Raleigh locket. But when he tries to re-establish himself with Fran she refuses to see him. No excuse he can make to her can erase from her mind the conviction that he had jilted her when he discovered her locket would not bring him a fortune.

Disappointed, he is cruel to Lael who hates Fran and holds her responsible for her unrequited love. Insane with jealousy and rage, Lael shoots Fran.

Nina was walking back and forth before the door of 492. Her footsteps made no sound on the soft cork floor. She had been walking like that for half an hour, waiting for the door to open, for someone to come out and say how Fran was. If she could only see Fran—was she couldn't. No one had seen her yet except her three nurses and her three doctors. A fourth had been called this morning. Christopher Abbott had seen to that.

The fourth floor corridor of the Bancroft hospital was very quiet, and quite dim. There were lights, shaded with green, up beyond where the head night floor nurse had her desk, and lights slightly yellow at the other end where the smell of disinfectants was the odors of wilting flowers, for outside nearly every door were vases of flowers and plants

Bouquets Refused

None before 492, however, because Fran couldn't have any in her room. The bouquets which Nina and Ward Quentin and Christopher Abbott had sent had gone to the children's ward on the tenth floor.

Once the girl came close to the door and put her head against the panels, but she could hear nothing, not even the murmur of voices. And there were two people in that room, besides the nurse and Fran. She had seen them go in. Two doctors, one Doctor Ferguson who had been summoned from Chicago today.

Fran had to get well, had to! Something had to be done to make her well! Nina clenched her hands and passed in her walk.

A nurse hurried up the corridor, her starched uniform rustling as she went. She smiled at Nina and stopped a moment. "You would be much more comfortable, I think, in the waiting room, Miss Markham. The examination may take longer than you think."

"Thanks. I'll wait here." Going into the fourth floor waiting room meant that she would have to be with Ward, because he was there. Out here, she was away from him. Last night she had sat in the stiff room with him, and watched him smoke endless cigarettes while she waited for news. Tonight she couldn't.

The nurse disappeared into one of the rooms. Nina glanced at her watch. Ten o'clock. She had been in the hospital since 6 when she had come from work. And no news. That was the horrible thing. No news. All day long from the office she had telephoned for news, and there was none. Fran was the same as she had been when she came.

A voice behind her startled her, and she swung around to meet Christopher Abbott's worried gray eyes.

"Didn't mean to scare you," he said softly. "Any news?"

Sends His Doctor

"None. Doctor Ferguson is still in—there." How kind he had been, since Fran had been in the hospital! Sending his own doctor first, and then when Doctor Morrison was doubtful, calling in Doctor Ferguson. Coming last to night, and staying until midnight, and the night before, too. Nina knew, also, that Mr. Abbott stopped in during the day. The nurses had told her.

"You've been so kind, Mr. Abbott," she said impulsively, but he didn't reply. Together they stood near the door and waited. Soon both the doctors came out, and Abbott went up to them.

"Well?" he asked, Nina right behind him.

Ferguson cleared his throat and frowned. He was weary from his plane trip and the quick journey to the hospital. "Can't say, Mr. Abbott. Can't say."

ROSE-TINTED GLASSES

A PROPHET may be without honor in his own country but he generally has a good deal of fun. When you set out to tell what conditions are going to be two or three centuries hence, no one can possibly prove that you are wrong; and to talk without fear of contradiction is one of the greatest pleasures known to man.

Rexford G. Tugwell apparently enjoyed himself very much when he told an audience at Albany, N. Y., the other day that the entire middlewest will be a trackless, treeless, waterless desert in 30 years unless something is done to conserve water levels and check erosion.

He put his prophecy in the form of some travel notes by a British explorer in the year 2235, and it made pleasantly shivery reading. He had his explorer poking about on the site of St. Louis, finding the Mississippi nearly dry, traversing a lifeless waste where the corn and wheat belt now lies, and meditating profoundly on the evils that arise from lack of national foresight.

However timely as a warning all this may be, it might be just as much fun to write a similar prophecy based on optimism rather than pessimism.

Let us suppose, for instance, that we heed all the warnings that we have been getting in recent years—warnings about soil conservation, industrial waste, social injustice, the need for rehousing, and so on; let us suppose that we manage to do all the things which it is evident today that we need to do, and put our national house properly in order.

What would the traveler of 2235 A. D. find then? We can see him visiting great cities that are free from slums, with every family occupying a clean, decent home and every child having access to grassy parks and groves for play; cities which manage to get along without unemployment or soup kitchens or poverty, governed as efficiently and sensibly as a school of technology, say, is governed today.

Beyond these cities the traveler would find the world's happiest and most prosperous farms. Where the land is tilled, it is green with growing crops, and the farm houses and villages are both lovely to look at and comfortable to live in; where the land is not tilled, it is park-like, reserved for enjoyment of all the people—who, by this time, have plenty of leisure to enjoy such things.

A prophecy built along these lines is quite a contrast with the one Mr. Tugwell put together; and the comforting part about it all is that it is quite as likely to come true as his.

And that, after all, is what makes the present, with all its problems, a good time to be alive. Our destiny is in our hands as never before.

If we run the risk, through blindness and greed, of making doleful forecasts come true, we also have the chance—and, all in all, a better chance—of building a future brighter than anything we dream of today.

Just 160 years ago the Americans feared the British were coming. Now we hope they'll come across.

AN OLD LESSON TO LEARN

A CALIFORNIA rancher turned his horses out on pasture land. They wandered about, foraging for themselves, and keeping fat.

Just to see what would happen, he dumped a pile of hay into the field near a fence. The horses came around and ate the hay. It was simple; they could feed themselves without working.

For five days the farmer dumped a couple of forkfuls of hay against the fence. The horses stuck around and ate it.

At the end of that time the farmer stopped his relief work and pitched no more hay. But the horses gathered around and whinnied. They grew thin—although there was plenty of pasture if they wanted to go and work for it.

People are pretty much like horses in that respect. You can't blame them for liking something for nothing. We all do. So this pasture scene is being duplicated many times with many variations in our relief setup.

And someday there may not be any more hay. The greatest lesson many people are going to have to learn is this one: If ye do not work, neither shall ye eat.

A trip to Laguna these days is good for jaded spirits. Like all the beach towns, Laguna is enjoying its quota of visitors on holidays and over the week-ends. But there is something besides beach visitors and resorts to hold one's attention there. A building program is accompanied by a brisk sale of real estate, and above all there is a "Let's Go, Laguna" atmosphere that makes one tingle all over.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

ONCE in a lifetime it comes to a newspaper man—the opportunity to play an important part in a major news story and then write about it, knowing he has it tied up to the exclusion of all the competition.

Such was the experience Saturday of John H. Dreher, veteran writer for the Seattle Times, who, acting on a "hunch," hired a taxicab in Tacoma, drove like mad along country roads early in the morning and met a rickety Ford bearing the kidnapped son of J. P. Weyerhaeuser, for whom a nation had prayed for eight days.

Himself a father, Mr. Dreher thought first of getting the boy home to loved ones. He might have waited awhile—until his own newspaper had a chance to send a photographer and bottle up all the pictures—but he didn't. He ordered the taxicab driver to drive speedily to the Weyerhaeuser mansion, where the lad was delivered to waiting arms.

Dreher, past 50, in failing health, the oldest employee in point of service on The Times, reaped his reward. He took the boy home after police officers said the newspapers had hampered the search. He scored one of the biggest newspaper "scoops" of the year and gave Journal readers the exclusive story in Santa Ana. Incidentally, it was typical of the superior news service Journal readers are enjoying these days.

In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: I saw her at Chatham Walk last night with a complete scumster.

One of those rare, fairy girls with an elf smile—a Marie Doro in "The Admirable Crichton"—who entrance, make you ashamed at staring so fixedly. But she didn't mind.

The admiration of men was her cocktail. And when she faded—get thee to a nunnery or a leap out of a 13th story window... or "James, the Face Lifter's in West 48th street, and don't spare the horses!" Then there was the Bernard Shaw fellow on the sidewalk bench opposite Otto Kahn's on the upper avenue.

Elderly with a white beard, dignified, though seedy. He had an uncouth brown paper package, all his worldly effects. He was solving a cross word puzzle. He had plenty of time. Plenty. He had all the time there was. I'm crazy, but darsent, to use the words edacious, gular, wittol, catoptric and xanthous.

People imagine that an author, ha, ha, just names his book and that's that. Alas! He has to please the sales force. Luckless he who suggests several names, of which he really likes only one. They are pledged to select the one he hates. Title for essay: Unknown books of well-known authors.

One of the hardest working authors in the business was the late and monocolic Louis Joseph Vance. He always worked at night—best time of all for creative work. He was a fine fighter and a fine friend. Really started the Author's league. But was as lonely as his Lone Wolf and died alone. He lived at one time at the former-only Benedict in Washington Square East. Nearly all whose-whosers in art and literature seem to have lived there. Ike Marcoss, Hendrik Van Loon, Jack London, Charlie Norris and many others. A year in Washington Square usually removes the last traces of small townishness. Or so it is believed.

The forthright frankness in modern literature makes its difficult to believe the restrictions of a few years ago. There was the publisher who wouldn't permit Gelett Burgess to use "silk stockings" in his first novel. A bit too risqué! And it was the Ladies Home Journal, as I recall, that forbade Bert Terhune's hero to leave the heroine's house at 11 o'clock. Must be 10 o'clock!

Metropolitan mystery: How those tired waitresses in little restaurants, on their feet all day, can still smile a good-night. And that Awful Minute of suspense for heavy smokers: Wondering if they will get their cigars immediately after coffee.

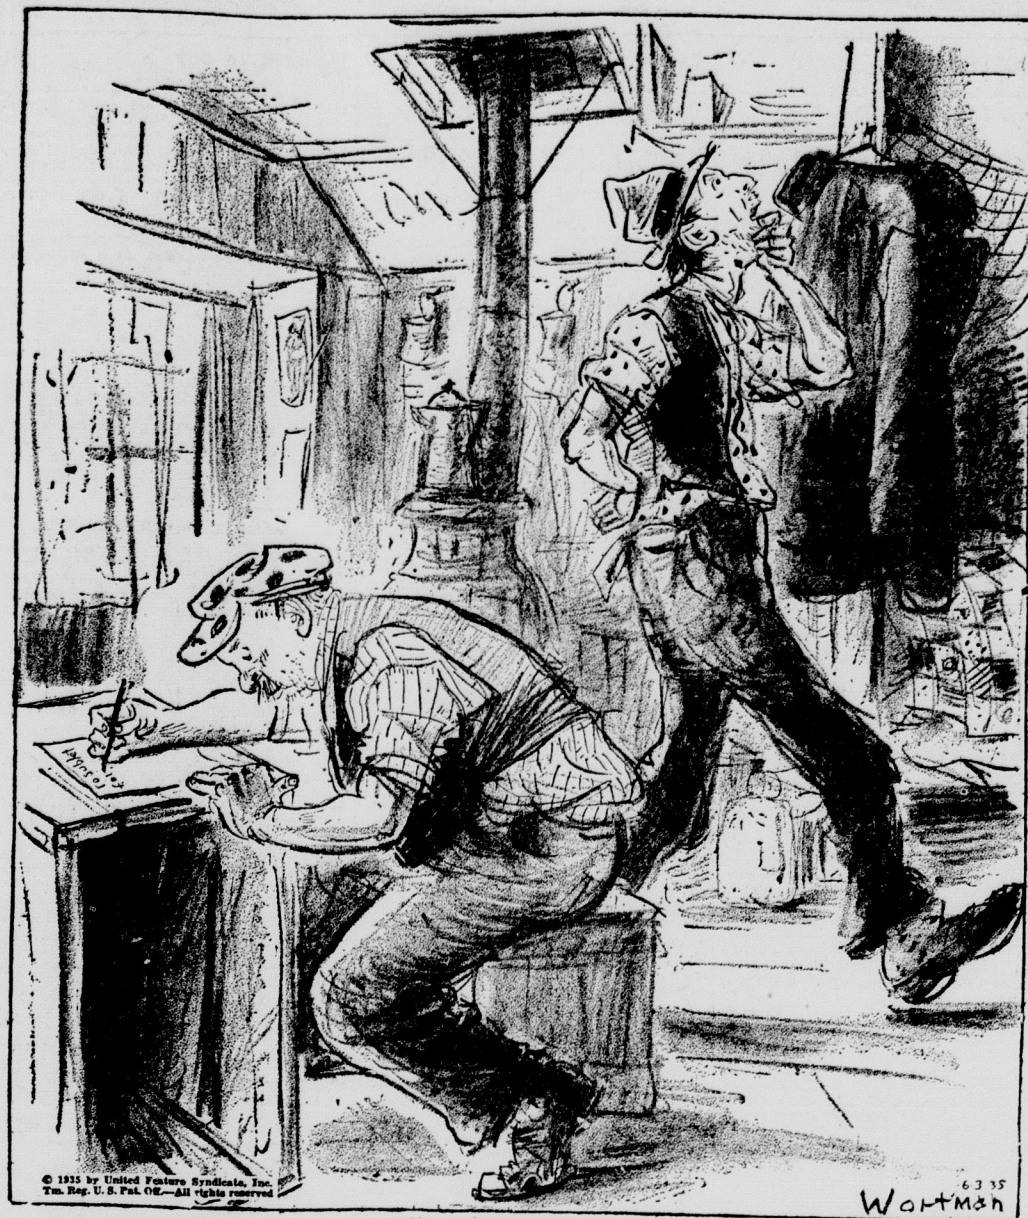

I was musing today about the modern boy when Ray Long jr., called. If he forms secret societies before college or prep school frats. As a youngster I was a member of an order called the Foul Friends of Hell. I was Arch Fiend. Will Gertner was the Bloodthirsty Destroyer. Such honors make the Congressional Medal or the Rosette of the Legion seem paltry today. And are there any boys who have printing presses, or bean blowers, with which of an evening in June one could bring a frightened girl to a second story window? And there was that greatest thrill. Making oxygen yourself in the cellar and burning magnesium in it. Or hydrogen and filling balloons. Too, there was life's great problem: Shall I put "Mr." on my first engraved card? Eureka! I can float on my back.

The enormous Normandie, with its floating grandeur, will send several great liners of a year ago to the junk heap. I'm glad Will Hays had the good taste to make no denials of the constant stories that James Gerard, Al Smith, Joe Kennedy and Farley would take his place. He knew all the while he was secure and could have the job as long as he wanted. Denying false statements is always a waste of effort. Someone was saying Frank Crowninshield is the star of the salad mixing experts. Superstition is not confined to illiterates. It's the belief of two intellectuals that Edwin Booth's ghost hovers above The Players. But what upsets me is my upsetting of a bottle of red ink on a new study rug two days ago. So far M. has not discovered it. But when she comes around I am in the grip of that solemn hush just before the captain of the execution squad yells "Fire!" The dry throat, numb bewilderment. That last glimpse of the cold grey dawn!

These are two out of hundreds of cases in the first generation of woman's suffrage. Not that the vote is responsible for it, but that, even with the vote, women expect to be given the moon and more of it every day.

If they were happier, if the world were a more joyous place for their position of independence and security, well and good. But they do not seem to be. For the material benefits of life they are willing to give up the real things, and only find out too late that the sacrifice was not worth while.

It goes back to the home and to the over-emphasis laid by many of the mothers on clothes, looks, parties. A man is measured by what material things he can give the girl, and the girl soon learns to use the measuring stick.

Many a mother, tired with the struggle to make two ends meet teaches her daughter, "I want you to be saved what I have suffered. Stay young. Don't sacrifice youth to romance and poverty." Have they forgotten the joys of building together?—the fulfillment of loving and being loved? Feeling Well Today?

Outdoor Precautions: I

When summer invites greater outdoor activity, one should bear in mind certain pertinent precautions which will minimize the hazards and complications incidental to the almost unavoidable minor injuries encountered in such activities. Probably the most important "precaution" is to consider no injury too trivial to deserve and require attention.

No matter how superficial the scratch or minor the injury may seem, one should attend to it.

Paying attention consists primarily in preventing the possible development of infection at the site of injury. Thus, if the skin has been broken, an antiseptic should be applied and the wound should be protected against dirt. Should one be without an antiseptic agent, soap and water may be used as a highly effective substitute. In fact, not a few scientists are of the conviction that thorough washing with soap and water is as effectively germicidal as the application of most other antiseptic agents.

One should also always bear in mind the special hazard of puncture wounds. This is the type of wound resulting from a penetrating injury, such, for example, as stepping on a nail, jabbing oneself with a pick, etc. The special hazard in this type of wound is lockjaw. The lockjaw germ, which is commonly found in the soil, and particularly around stables and barns, thrives when it is sheltered against contact with the air.

Wounds into which dirt has gained access should be cleaned thoroughly. If necessary the wound should be surgically opened or enlarged. Do not, however, probe it, even with a sterile instrument, for this may result in forcing the infectious material deeper. Rather encourage free bleeding. An oxygen-liberating antiseptic such as hydrogen peroxide or a solution of potassium permanganate should be applied. A protective dose of tetanus antitoxin should be taken as soon as possible.

CAN YOU SPARE A DIME?
(San Francisco News)

For everybody past 40 there is pathos in Railroad Week, officially proclaimed for June 10 to 15.

Oldsters can remember when the men who ran railroads were cocks of the walk. They ruled California for more than 40 years, as they ruled every other western state. Cities trembled at their nod. Towns were made and unmade.

There is no more dramatic illustration of how fast technology moves than the obsolescence of the railroads. But they still serve us, we still need them. And they are, at last, making a valiant attempt to come back. Air-conditioned trains, lighter and faster trains, better service, not so much jerking and shrieking of brakes and whistles.

There is a human spirit in Railroad Week. The devil is sick, and the devil a monk would be. The railroads can prosper if they are smart and give service. Today they are up on their toes, trying.

NO BACKWARD STEP
(Kansas City Star)

The general effect of the supreme court code decision should be salutary to business. But there were certain features of the codes that ought to be lived up to. Business would make a fatal mistake if it tried to take advantage of the decision to bring back sweat-shop conditions, throw men out of work and return to child labor in factories. Any such policies would invite more stringent regulations. Let industry as well as the New Deal watch its step. America will not turn backward. It will go forward but securely forward with the constitution as its guide.

My old friend C. Y. Martin draws the curtain of night around his couch and lies down to eternal rest. It was a long journey from the rugged Iowa prairie to the sunny slopes of California and then on to the elysian shores of eternity. C. Y. was a pioneer and he pioneered through those rigorous days when rail fences were common, blizzards a real hazard, and the comforts of life bought at the expense of physical courage. He met all of these hardships with faith and fortitude, and then came to the Pacific coast where the contest with nature lost much of its resistance. His residence in Santa Ana brought him an ease and comfort which he deserved. He is on his way to join that great caravan of friends who preceded him, and to rest from his labors.
